To Whom It May Concern:

Our company has a relationship with ADG that spans over the past several years. The most recent project was Poinciana Elementary School HVAC Renovation. This was a major renovation where actual construction was over sixteen months and involved interior renovations along with exterior renovation. The exterior renovations included a complete roof replacement on the entire campus. On this type of project constant communication and coordination with the Project Architect was key to the project's success. ADG was extremely helpful and provided the level of expertise which was required and in fact when above and beyond. I would recommend ADG for architectural services on any project no matter of the size or scope.

Please do not hesitate to call with any specific questions.
